

Wright brothers genealogy (ancestry)

From John Wrighte (d. 1509), to Samuel "Deacon" Wright (who emigrated from England to America), to Orville and Wilbur Wright, who invented the airplane Milton Wright was a dedicated genealogist who could trace his roots back to his "great-grandfather's great-sixteenth-century England. In 1538, John Wrighte and his wife Olive purchased Kelvedon Hall in Essex. His great-grandfather was Samuel Wright. Samuel emigrated to America in the 1630s, coming ashore in Boston. He settled in Springfield where he owned 41 acres and a toll bridge. The local Congregational Church was without a pastor, so Samuel dispensed the Word. He became known as "Deacon" Wright.

Here are the "begats":

- John Wrighte (d. 1509) married Agnes Kelvedon, and begat
- John Wrighte (b. 1488, d. 1551), who married Olive Hubbard and begat
- John Wrighte (d. 1624), who married Benett Green (second wife) and begat
- Nathaniel Wright (b. 1581), who married Lydia James in 1612 and begat
- Samuel "Deacon" Wright, who emigrated to America.

Samuel's great-great grandson, Dan Wright, saw action in the American Revolutionary War and settled in Vandalia, Ohio in 1790. He raised his family there, but in 1814, Dan and Sarah, together with their four children, traveled to Ohio and took up residence in Centerville, Ohio, near the frontier town of Dayton. Dan's son, the younger Dan, established a farm in Rush County, Indiana with his young wife, Catherine. Milton, their second child, was born there.

- Samuel "Deacon" Wright (b. 1613, d. 1665) married Margaret (d. 1681), and begat
- James Wright (b. 1639, d. 1725), who married Abigail James in 1665 and begat
- Samuel Wright (b. 1674, d. 1734), who married Rebecca Sykes in 1704 and begat
- Benoni Wright (b. 1719, d. 1761), who married Eliza Smith in 1742 and begat
- Dan Wright (b. 1757, d. 1832), who married Sarah Freeman in 1785 and begat
- Dan Wright (b. 1790, d. 1861), who married Catherine Reeder (b. 1800, d. 1866) in 1818 and begat
- Milton Wright, the father of the Wright brothers.

The Bishop's Boys: A Life of Wilbur and Orville Wright by Tom D. Crouch.

Synopsis: "Crouch (A Dream of Wings) interweaves family drama with the history of aviation in a riveting saga of ingenuity, competing claims, public adulation and technical innovation." -Publishers Weekly.

Review: For anyone really interested in the story of human flight, Tom Crouch's "The Bishop's Boys" is the book for you. Crouch has done a masterful job of telling the Wright's story, and what a story it is! Most legendary figures of history crumble when their lives are examined--Wilbur and Orville Wright are no exception. The more you learn about them, the more amazing they become. Thanks to Crouch and "The Bishop's Boys," the entire story, warts and all, is finally put before the public in a well written, definitive, biography.

Dear Shirley,

Many, many thanks for sending me the families of Nathan, Stout, Reuben and Asa. I should have thanked you sooner, but you know me.

I've had several people send information, but no one has come close to what you sent. I really appreciate it. I now have over 11,000 names in the Atteberry file.

One thing I wanted to mention to you is about the Mitchell family. Did you notice that two of Sarah brothers had daughters named Sarah and Keziah? I'm wondering if Charles and Edward didn't both marry first cousins! I almost hate to suggest this for fear someone will declare it to be fact. It's funny how an idea can turn into fact.

Since you are so generous to offer, I think I will keep your records. I would like to have them to refer back to, in case I mess up somewhere. I have all the names in the computer, but I may not have everything just right. Also, I may have to check a date or something. I'll make you a deal on my book when it's ready.

I've made ^{the} correction that you sent.

Later.

Sincerely,

Wayne

George Ely, of Great Carlton, dated 3rd of April, 1570, and proved 27th of March, 1571. He was a man in humble life, and named only a son John and three daughters. On the chance of his not naming a son George, by reason of his being already provided for, I went to Great Carlton and examined the parish registers, but in vain. It would be idle, on the score of time and expense, to think of a systematic examination of all the parish registers in Lincolnshire, several hundreds in number, the great majority of which now in existence do not commence until after the date of George Ely's birth, and I fear that the history of his family in that county must be left to the chance of some happy accident, though the probability is that nothing ever will, or can be, ascertained respecting it. His origin was evidently humble, though his parents or friends must have been thrifty, and people of character, to have been able to have sent him to the university at all. But they have left no trace behind them, and we must accept him as we find him. He is certainly entitled to respect, as having from a lowly position elevated himself into a university scholar and a divine, and hence, by the act of Parliament, a gentleman.

George Ely probably married in 1571, the year he obtained the living of Tenterden, being then 26 years of age, as his children (except one) were all baptized there, the eldest in the following year. I have made every effort to discover the antecedents of his wife, but only learn that her christian name was Florence. I examined all the marriage licenses of the period at Canterbury, as well as those at the Archbishop's two offices in London, and at the registry of the Bishop of London. The series at the first and last are tolerably perfect, but at the two others sadly deficient, so that a license may have existed: but they may have been married by banns, in any parish, and in that case the search for the record, without any clew, would be hopeless.

The children of George Ely, by Florence, his wife, were ten in number, nine of whom were baptized at Tenterden, and two buried, all between the years of 1572 and 1591. They will be particularly enumerated hereafter. After an incumbency and wedded life of 44 years, they were not long divided by death, for they were buried within three days of each other. In the Burial Register of Tenterden occur the following melancholy but interesting entries:

"1615, August 18, Florence, wife of Mr. George Ely, vicar. 1615, August 21, Master George Ely, Vicar of Tenterden."

His wife was alive on the 13th of August, for on that day he made his will of which the following is a full abstract:

I, George Ely, Vicar of Tenterden, in the county of Kent, &c. To the poor of Tenterden, 10 shillings. To Florence, my wife, all her wearing apparel, and £13.6.8, four loads of wood, a seam of barley, a seam of wheat, &c., and the use of my household goods for life. After my said wife's death all my household goods to my daughter, Abigail, wife of Henry Terter, and Lydia Ely, daughter of my son, Andrew Ely, deceased, equally. All my apparel to be sold, and the money arising therefrom to be paid to Daniel Ely, son of my said son Andrew Ely, deceased, when 22 years of age, or, if he die before then, to his sister Lydia, at her age of 22 or on her marriage. To said Lydia, £8. To Obadiah, my son, 40 shillings, and to his son Robert, £2, when 22 years of age. To my daughter Judith, wife of Richard Marden, 40 shillings. To Zachary, my son, 10 shillings. To Susan, Margaret and Sarah Ely, daughters of my son Nathaniel Ely, deceased, each £6.13.4, at their respective ages of 18 or marriage. To my daughters-in-law, Susanna Ely, Alice Ely, Mary Ely, Elizabeth Ely and Susannah Glover, each 5 shillings. To each other of my children's children 10 shillings. To Daniel, my son, my little folded table, also my two pieces of land in Tenterden, called Bramble Teake and Raynaldisham. To John, Thomas, Francis and Nathaniel, sons of my said son Nathaniel Ely, deceased, messuages and certain lands, &c., in Woodchurch, equally. To my said wife Florence, £4 per annum for life, also a messuage or tenement, &c., in Tenterden in the occupation of Vincy Glover, for her life, with remainder to my sons Samuel and Daniel. All residue to my said two sons, and I appoint my said son Samuel my executor.

The will was proved at Canterbury, by the son Samuel Ely, on the 30th of August, 1615, [recorded vol. 43, folio 215.]

It would be interesting, if it were possible, to ascertain whether any sudden calamity befell this household. The father makes his will on the 13th of the month without stating that he is ill, and provides for his wife as though he counted on her continued life, and yet eight days later the grave has closed over both of them, he outliving her. It is a remarkable case.

The issue of Rev. George Ely and Florence, his wife, were as follows:

1. Nathaniel of whom hereafter.
2. Andrew, who was baptized at Tenterden, 12 June, 1575. According to his father's will he died before August 13, 1615, leaving a son Daniel not then 22 years of age. It is probable that his widow had re-married, and was "Susannah Glover" named in Rev. George Ely's will as one of his daughters-in-law. There is no record in the Tenterden registers of the marriage or burial of Andrew, and he had probably removed to some other parish. No will of his is to be found.
3. Zachary, who was baptized at Tenterden, 14 October, 1577, and was still living 13 August, 1615, when he had a legacy of only 10 shillings. No further trace of him has been found.

Executors: Sons John the elder and Robert.

Overseers: Sons middle and young John (note middle John is here styled "John Wright of Wrights Bridge")

Witnesses: Thomas Wood, clerk (I.E. parson) Robert Sheparde, John Symonde, and Thomas Lytman.

Proved 21 November 1551 at Stapleford Abbots by the two Executors named. (Register Bastwick states it was proved at Brentwood but agrees in the date.)

John Wright of Kelvedon Hall (1488 - 1551) was granted arms 20 June 1509, and his grandson, Lord John Wright (1548 - 1624) was granted a peerage and a seat in the House of Lords, 20 June 1590 ["32 Elizabeth" (Vis. Essex 1633)], and his son, John Wright, Esq. (1569-1644) served as a member of the House of Commons and its Clerk from 1612 through at least 1633.

John Wright's support of Henry VIII's accession to the crown (and his likely support of the reign of Henry's very unpopular father) resulted in him being granted coat armor June 20, 1509, which grant was among some of the first official acts as King that Henry VIII performed. Clearly Henry VIII believed it important to immediately raise up John Wright from his status as a wealthy priest's son, clearly a yeoman of the realm, to one of landed gentry in his own right. The support of John Wright and other middle-class "Gentlemen," like him in the matter of the Supremacy of the King over the Pope would later be crucial to the stability of Henry VIII's reign. This later support in religious matters may have been nothing more than an astute, pragmatic, move by John Wright in order to preserve the Wright family church related inheritances of his Reverend Father during Henry VIII's sacking of the church and monasteries. It is interesting to note, that John Wright's grandson would later, in 1604, return that branch of the family which held Kelvedon Hall back to the Catholic Church in defiance of King James and the Anglican Church.

WRIGHT. (We have rec'd much help on this family fm. a MSS. record in possession of Mr. J. F. BOARDMAN, of Hartford, Ct.). Hibbard's Hist. of Goshen, Ct. (pp. 560-1) gives the following as the Eng. ancestry of this early Weth. fam.—See, also, N. Eng. Gen. Reg. IV, 855.

1. Wright, JOHN, Esq., Lord of Kelvedon Manor, Co. Essex, Eng., who acquired Kel. by purchase, 1538, and d. 5 Oct., 1551; m. Olive ———. Arms: azure, 2 bars arg. in chief a leopard's head, or upon a ducal coronet a dragon's head and neck, coupé, or.
2. Wright, ROBERT, Esq., (s. John), of Brook Hall, or "the Moat House," So. Weald, Co. Essex, Eng., Lord of the Manor of Great and Little Rapers; was bu. 25 Jan., 1557-8; m. dau. Rob't Green, of Navestock, Co. Essex, Eng.
3. Wright, THOMAS,* Esq., (s. Rob't, s. John), of Brook Hall, etc.; bu. 21 Oct., 1607; m. ——— Parke, who was bu. 17 Nov., 1603.

* One acc. makes this Thomas the s. instead of the gd.-son of John & Olive of Kelvedon Manor.

Several variations of this descent are noticeable among the different accounts extant; and the author of Hall Ancestry, p. 192, claims that Thomas, the Settler, descended from John Wright, Bishop of Bristol, Winchester and Litchfield, Eng., but we have accepted Hibbard's account as prob. the nearest correct.

THE WRIGHT FAMILY.

4. Wright, JOHN, Esq., (s. Thos., s. Rob't, s. John), of Brook Hall, etc.; bp. 13 Sept., 1577; bu. 30 May, 1640; m. Grace Glascok (dau. of Henry) of High Easter Parsonage, Co. Essex, Eng. His son
5. Wright, THOMAS,* Esq., the Weth. settler, was b. Eng., 19 Nov., 1610, came, prob., first to Watertown, Mass.; was of the Mass. River called by the Inds. Mannahannock ("Great Laughing Place") part of which ever since, and is now (1900) owned by his lineal descendants. He was a dep. to the Gen. Ct. of Conn., 1643; selectman, 1658; comm'r on town-lines, etc. (W. T. V., I, p. 45); his earmark for cattle duly rec. (Ibid., p. 1) and fence-tax rec. 1647 (Ibid., p. 29); was made freeman, 11 May, 1654, and his name is in the 1669 list as a freeman at Weth.; he and Enoch Buck were constables, 1668-9, and he was on Ct. jury at Htfd. Mch. same yr.; he seems, also, to have been prominent in the Ch. fight which led to the removal to Hadley; he bro't with him fm. Eng. a wife, name known and 5 ch.; she d. tho' where is unknown, and he m. (2) May, 1647, Margaret, wid. of the John Elsen, who had been killed by Inds. in the Weth. massacre of 1637; and is said to have been, before her marr. to Elsen, the wife of (poss. Hugh) Hilliard (or Hillier), by whom she had 3 ch. (Benj., Job and John Hilliard); she d. 1670-1, without issue by Wright. Her will dated 19 Jan., 1670-1 ment. her gd.-s. Concerning "The Island." See Weth. Ld. Recs., III, 162-170; VIII, 298; Glast. Cent., 178, and Chapt. VII, Vol. I of this Hist. Vol. I, Weth. Ld. Recs. shows from 1640-1659, some 40 different purchases of ld., mostly on the Island, and Vol. II, several more.

Will proven 6 March, 1689-90.

* Ct. Rec. 4 June, 1711, adms. with will annexed gr. to David Goodrich and Jonathan Belding, Capt. David Goodrich to be guardian to 3 ch. viz: Eleazer, David and Abigail Wright. † In support of her belief, she says: “The Lydia of Thos. Wright may also have m. a Joseph Smith, as were so many of that name, but please don't rob the first Lydia of her husband Joseph Smith. She had a dau. Lydia, who m. a Cole, and ment. this “my dau. Cole in her deed of gift to her son Samuel.” The following extracts from deeds, etc., seem to throw light on the Wright and Smith imbroglio:

Vol. III, Weth. Land Rec., p. 281, Apr. 9, 1689, Jonathan Smith's Deed of Gift from his mother Lidian Harris wife of Wm. Harris—adjoining lands of the heirs of Joseph Smith Dec.—“Lidian Harris of Weth. with her husband Wm. Harris joining with her & consenting appeared Jan. 8, 1688,” & recorded in Apr., 1689. Also, in Vol. III, Weth., 1688: “A record hath formerly been made of all the land on the Great Island in this township unto Thomas Wright late deceased. Joseph Wright, the heirs of Joseph Smith & James Wright,” &c.

Vol. II, Weth. Land Rec., p. 135, Aug. 29, 1669, Lands belonging to Joseph Smith w^a was given him by his father Thomas Wright Senior,” &c.

Vol. III, Weth. Land Rec., pp. 162 and 170. Great Island. Wethersfield, Apr. 30, 1683. “It appearing by the testimony of Thomas Standish—Mr. John Deming Sen^r—Josiah Churchill & Rich. Smith that Thomas Wright late of Weth., dec^d & his children, have for twenty years at least last past possessed as their own and not as tenants, all the Island called the Great Island in Weth. township excepting only what land there pertained to John Not^t late dec^d—and Thomas Wright & James Wright & Joseph Wright & Jonathan Smith for his Brother Joseph Smith's children,” &c. From the above it will be seen that Lydia Wright who m. Joseph Smith was a dau. of Thomas Wright Senior. Lydia Wright Smith m. (2) Wm. Harris & on the same day she made another deed of gift to her son Samuel, similar to Jonⁿ Smith.

Vol. III, Weth. Land Rec., pp. 162 and 170. Great Island. And unto Joseph Wright, &c., Land on ^ad Island being 5 acres butted north on the land of the above named Thomas Wright & south on the land of the heirs of Joseph Smith deceased who married Lidian the daughter of Thomas Wright dec^d—&c.—James Wright & his heirs forever the residue of the said Island. CHARLES WRIGHT, 2d ch. and s. of this family, was a botanist, whose unremitting and unobtrusive labors of a lifetime in that department of Science confer an honor upon his birth place, and eminently deserve full record on the pages of our history.

Born in Wethersfield, 29 Oct., 1811, he prepared for college at the Weth. High School, and entered Y. C., 1831, developing while there a decided taste for the study of botany, though apparently without any instructor in that department of scientific study. After graduation, in 1835, and even before, he made some beginning at medical study, but could not continue for want of means. In the latter part of 1835, he became a private teacher in a family at Natchez, Miss., where his leisure time was passed in botanizing. From this point, his letters and autobiographic notes present a careful chronological history of his life, from which no one could infer that it had been, in his view, especially useful in any direction. It was evidently a unique life, and one which he enjoyed, tho' he makes no effort to set forth its value—but tells his story just as he lived it—as silent as the flowers themselves are—to the theory of their existence. In the spring of 1837, he followed the flow of emigration into Texas, then an independent republic, and in that State he remained until 1852, engaged in surveying, teaching, but always in botanizing. During this period, he obtained from an old friend, Dr. Veitch, a semi-official position, with moderate pay and light duties in a company of volunteers which the Dr. had raised for the Mexican War; and later he obtained leave to join a small company of U. S. troops, traversing the unexplored country between San Antonio and El Paso, on the Rio Grande. This journey he made on foot, boarding with the transportation train, and enduring many privations and hardships—with no other assistance than the conveyance of his trunk, and the collecting paper needful for the preservation of his specimens. Still later, 1851, he joined, as botanist and surveyor, the party under command of Col. J. D. Graham, U. S. A., one of the Commissioners for establishing a boundary line between the U. S. and Mexico,—an expedition which ultimately traversed a country never before seen by white men, even to the S. E. cor. of the present Arizona. Meanwhile he had opened a correspondence with Prof. Gray, of Harvard College, and had sent him some of his specimens, which together with those which he took to Cambridge, Mass., on his return to the East in 1852, first revealed to the scientific world the wonders of Texas' Flora, being published as Plantæ Wrightianæ, in the 3rd volume of the Smithsonian Contributions to Knowledge, Part I, in 1852. Another portion of his collections form the basis of the Second Part of the Plantæ Wrightianæ, published in 1853, and still another (with those of some other botanists) of the Botany of the Mexican Boundary Survey, pub. 1859. One of these Southwestern shrubs was named by Prof. Gray, the Carlwrightia, in honor of its modest discoverer.

We next find Mr. Wright, in 1853, as the botanist of the North Pacific Exploring Expedition, under command, successively, of Capt. Ringold and Commander John Rogers,—visiting Cape of Good Hope, Australia, Hong Kong, the Borneo Islds., Loo Choo Islds., Japan, Kamschatka, Behring's Straits, and California, where at San Francisco, Mr. W. was detached from the expedition and returned to Cambridge, having among other collections, made one of about 800 species from the Cape of Good Hope, and another of over 500 from Hong Kong, which form in part the basis of Bentham's Flora Hongkongensis. The collection which he made in Japan was also large and very important.

In the following autumn (of 1856) Mr. Wright visited Cuba, and became greatly interested in its botany. Prof. Asa Gray, the eminent botanist of Harvard College, in his Botanical Neurology of 1885, thus mentions Mr. Wright's Cuban work: "His botanical collections, from time to time, distributed into sets, were acquired by several of the principal herbaria of the world—the fullest sets of the Phanogamous and vascular Cryptogamous plants, by the herbarium of Cambridge, and by the late Prof. Griesbach of Gottingen, who was, at this time, engaged with his Flora of the British West Indies, so that he gladly undertook the determination of the plants of Cuba. They were accordingly mainly published in Griesbach's two papers, Plantæ Wrightianæ Cuba Orientali; in the Memoirs of the American Academy of the Arts and Sciences, 1860 and 1862; and in his Catalogus Plantarum Cubansium exhibens collectionem Wrightianam aliasque minores ex Insula Cuba missas, an 8vo. vol. pub. at Leipsic in 1866. The latter work enumerates the Ferns and their allies; but those for the earlier part were pub. in 1860, by Prof. Eaton in his Filices Wrightianæ et Fendlerianæ, in the 8th vol. of the Mem. of Am. Acad. Arts & Sciences—and incompletely pub. by Sauvelle, at Havana, 1873, and later, in his Flora Cubana, a revision of Griesbach's Catalogue, made by Mr. Wright, who added descriptions of a good many new species. Mr. Wright's only other direct publication is his Notes on Jussiaea in 10th Vol. of the Linnaean Society, Journal. His very rich collections of the lower cryptograms were distributed in sets, and published by specialists, the Ferni by Berkley and the late Dr. Curtis; the Musci by the late Mr. Sullivant; the Lichenes by Prof. Tuckerman in large part, and the certain tribes quite recently by Miller, of Geneva. Thus Mr. Wright's name is deeply impressed upon the botany of the Queen of the Antilles."

In 1871, the U. S. Gov't sent an exploratory expedition to Santo Domingo, to make enquiries with reference to a proposed annexation of that island to the U. S., of which opportunity Mr. Wright availed himself to examine its botany. But the season proved unfavorable, and he returned after a brief absence, with less spoil than usual. His botanizing tours were now at an end. After a severe illness in 1873, he passed much of his time at Cambridge, in charge of the work, as Librarian, of the Bussey Institution of Harvard College; but after 1876, he spent the remainder of his life at his old home in Weth., where with his brothers and sisters, all aged, and like himself unmarried, he employed his time in the common duties and interests of the family, and died 11 August, 1885. Prof. Gray says of him and his work, "We cannot well over-estimate the services which Charles Wright has rendered to Botany. He has been not only a capital and indefatigable explorer and collector, but also an acute observer. I have myself profited not a little by his observations and critical remarks. Thanks to the system of nomenclature and the permanent preservation of collectors' names in Botany, Mr. Wright's name is frequent and imperishable in the record of Science. He will always be known as having done very much to develop the Botany of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, then of Japan and other parts of N. E. Asia, and also of Cuba and San Domingo. Very few have done so much in various quarters of the world, and hardly any collectors have been more helpful to the botanists of this generation."

And Prof. Daniel C. Eaton, an equally eminent authority with Prof. Gray, says, "Mr. Wright has been one of the most industrious collectors of plants the world ever saw. * * * As a collector of plants from the Arctic regions to the Torrid, and thence to the southern part of the habitable world, and as an acute and diligent observer of plants in their native regions, he stands almost without an equal; Sir Joseph Hooker being the only equal I can think of. * * * He has laid the botanical world under great and lasting obligations."

The above biography of this most useful Weth. man has been condensed from a published article in Botanical Necrology of 1885, Am. Jo. of Science, XXXI, Jan., 1886; from the Hist. Rec. of Class of 1835, Yale College, 1881, and from a large collection of letters and autobiographic notes of Charles Wright, now in possession of Wm. F. J. Boardman, of Hartford, Conn., to whose liberality, also, we are indebted for the portrait accompanying this sketch. H. R. S.

She was the dau. of Leonard & Abigail Gibbs Dix, and and wid. of Elisha Boardman, acc. to Boardman Gen. This worthy man has made a great deal of trouble for some of his desc't's, in Mass., who are trying to find out where he originated. In this search are implicated Mr. RODNEY P. WRIGHT, of Cambridge, Mass., and Miss WILHEMINA G. When arrived at age of 21, he rec'd his share of his father's est. with which he bo't a right of land in Canaan, Ct., and rem. thither abt. 1749. From the Town Recs. of So. JONATHAN SMITH SENR.

JOSEPH (s. of Richard & Rebecca) m. Lydia (dau. Thos.) Wright, abt. 1653(?); res. two or three yrs. at Midd., prior to 1654-5. In 1665 had rec. to him a homestead in Weth. proper; rem. to Rocky Hill, where he was one of the first settlers; and rec'd from the Town lds by the River side—much mention of which will be found in Vol. I, Chapt. VII; and in Dr. Griswold's Chapter on Rocky Hill.

Mrs. A. C. N. HAWLY supplies the following:

Vol. III—Prob. Ct., Hartford, Ct.—held Nov. 25, 1673—Inv. (amt. £441-07-06) of the Est. of Joseph Smith late of Rocky Hill was exh'd & Lydia Smith relict of s^d. Joseph is granted adm. of the est. of s^d.—dec—"The Sonnes to receive their portion at 21 yrs of age"—"The daughter present, or at her day of marriage—as she pleaseth" Tho. Wright & Jonathan Smith are overseers to the chil. & to assist the wid.; the profits belonging to the widow till the chil. are of age—she maintaining them till then"—Her dau. Lidia mar ——— Cole. (This Thos. was prob. her brother— & Jon^a. her son.—A. C. H.)

In the following docs. from Htfd. Co. Prob. Office, it will be seen that, before 1687, the wid. Lydia had m. again.

Children: Lydia age 19 years; Joseph 13 yrs. last Mch.; Jonathan 10 yrs. last August; Samuel 7 yrs. last August; Court Record 4 September 1673.

Vol. 4—1st June, 1687 Court Record page 130—this Court upon motion of Lydia Harris relict of Joseph Smith late of Rocky Hill Dec^d. that there might be a settlement of estate of sd. Joseph Smith upon his children this Court appoint Mr. John Robbins with John Buttolph & Jonathan Smith to distribute the estate to his wife and children to divide to the sons you are to take the eldst son as living. (Note, it will be seen that something is lacking in the foregoing case.)

Joseph Smith of Wethersfield 13 June 1687 Inv. £200-10-09 taken by John Buttolph, John Robbins One son $\frac{3}{4}$ year old name Joseph [Note, probably this Joseph was son of Joseph of Rocky Hill and the Court ordered the distribution so that the portion from his Father's Estate would now fall into his Inventory and descend to his son.]

Taking the emigrant heads of these other lines alphabetically, we begin with RICHARD, or rather the Richards—for, as will be seen, their beginnings are not altogether so clear, that we can avoid the query—"which Richard?"

RICHARD, a settler in Weth. (1644—See below) 1646 or earlier, where he was one of those bound to maintain the Great Meadow fence; was involved in the ch. disturbance wh. ld. to the emig. to Hadley, and prob. was a Russellite but age and infirmities prevented his going thither; he was prob. an old man then, and may have been the R. S., who was at Taunton, in 1638, or Ipswich, in 1642; prob. did not live very long after coming to Weth.

RICHARD, Jr., son of the above, b. abt. 1617 (4. e. if he was the same R. S., who in case of Hollister vs. Bulkely—Pr. Controversies, III., Sept., 1684, testified that he was then 67 yrs. old, "came up fm. HILLIARD, BENJAMIN, whom Savage calls s. of Hugh, freeman of Salem, Mass., was cattle herder for Weth., 1648 (Weth. T. V., I, 31); was, acc. to a bond executed by him and duly rec. on Weth. T. V., I, p. 1, Mch., 15, 1649, the son-in-law of Thos. Wright. He had been fined by the Gen. Ct. £10 and ordered to procure a bond of that amt. to secure his good behavior for the next 12 mos. He secured his father-in-law, Wright, for this bond by transfer to him of "my house, and barne and home-lot, that was given me by my father-in-law, John Elson, in his last will and test. in reversion, after the dth. of my mother"—from which it seems that he had been twice marr. (1) to dau. of Elson; (2) to a dau. of Wright. Savage, II, p. 421, seems to have been in error, in attributing these two marr. to Benjamin's mother, Margaret, wid. of his father Hugh, who d. 1670, and had, he says, no issue by either Elson or Wright.—See Chapt. - Sex: M
- Birth: ABT 1638 in possibly England or Massachusetts
- Death: 17 DEC 1714 in (age 75) Wethersfield, Hartford Co., Connecticut
- Baptism: 5 MAR 1638/39 South Weald, Essex, England

- Note:

Joseph Wright, the son of Thomas Wright and probably his second wife, Margaret Butler, was born, probably in England or Massachusetts, about 1639. He was a cooper by trade. In 1662 he received from his father a homestead on the east side of High street near the burying ground. This he conveyed to the town for use as a parsonage in 1664, receiving a lot with an old schoolhouse on it, on the west side of Rose lane (Main street) in exchange. This he conveyed to Hugh Welles in 1665, and received in exchange a lot on the east side of High street, north of his first home.

Joseph Wright was chosen Constable in 1672 and 1703 and Townsman in 1690 and 1691. He also held many minor offices. He was called "Captain" in 1690, and "Corporal" in 1703. He was also a Deacon in the church.

He was buried in the Wethersfield cemetery, where his gravestone has this inscription: Here lyeth the body of Decon Joseph Wright, who departed this life the 17th day of December, Anno Dom. 1714, aged 75 years. In his will, dated February 14, 1711-12, he mentions his wife, Mercy, and living children. [Hartford Probate Records, Vol. 9, page 21.]

The first wife of Joseph Wright was Mary Stoddard, daughter of John Stoddard and Mary Foote, who was born in Wethersfield, Hartford Co., Connecticut on March 12, 1643/4, and married December 10, 1663. She died there August 23, 1683. Joseph Wright married, second, in Wethersfield, March 10, 1685, Mercy Stoddard, the younger sister of his first wife, who was born in November, 1652. She survived her husband. Each of these daughters received 36 pounds at the distribution of their father's estate, March 2, 1664-5.

trous campaign of that year against the French and Indians, and served thirty-three weeks and six days. He enlisted under the same captain and general again in 1759 in the successful expedition against Ticonderoga and Crown Point, serving thirty-six weeks and four days. He must have married shortly after returning from this campaign. When the "Lexington Alarm" sounded through the colony in 1775, though he had become the father of a numerous family, his martial spirit was aroused again and he enrolled himself among those who were ready to fight. His name is also found on the lists in 1778, so that he is entitled to be called a soldier of the revolution, though he did not serve for any length of time.

The eldest of his children seems to have been Abraham, born about 1761. The baptisms of the others are found as follows on the records of Stepney parish: Joshua, September 30, 1764; John, February 2, 1766; Honor, November 29, 1767; Aziel, April 6, 1770 (born March 28); Elisha, December 8, 1771; Prudence, May 29, 1774; Lydia, August 6, 1775; Isaac, October 10, 1779; Joel, May 26, 1782. The wife of his grandson Isaac, born 1810, in giving the list of his family (1896), omitted the names of Prudence and Isaac, who probably died young.

(XI) Elisha, son of the above, known as Elisha Belden, Junior, was baptized December 8, 1771. His wife was Phebe Tryon, of Glastonbury. The Connecticut river was then the highway of commerce, and Rocky Hill was an important business center. He owned one of the two shipyards, and is mentioned as a noted shipwright in connection with boats built in the early part of the nineteenth century, among them the brig "Mary," 1805, the schooner "Nancy," 1807, the brig "Dispatch," 1808, and the schooner "Archer," 1810. These were all engaged in foreign trade. His house was on the old shipyard reservation north of the present railroad station. He died February 25, 1848, in his seventy-seventh year. His wife, Phebe, died March 26, 1848, in her eighty-first year. The following record of his children is derived for the most part from his family Bible, which he is said to have read through seventeen times. The later entries are in the handwriting of his son Isaac. George, born June 7, 1797, died unmarried, September 16, 1819. Barzillai, February 9, 1799, died unmarried, May 29, 1889. Nancy, September 26, 1800; married (first) a Mr. Burr, (second) a Mr. Tabor, and died in Ohio, May 7, 1851. Isaac, May 28, 1802, mentioned below. Sophia, March 21, 1804, died September 25, 1805.

Otis, April 15, 1807; married, September 10, 1837, Mary W. Butler; drowned in Connecticut river, September 20, 1840, leaving two daughters, who died in infancy.

(XII) Isaac Belden, son of Elisha Belden Junior, was born at Rocky Hill, May 28, 1802, and was baptized May 22, 1803. He married, July 16, 1829, Marietta, daughter of Allen and Martha (Wright) Holmes, of Rocky Hill. She was born November 25, 1810.

Allen Holmes, who died June 7, 1841, aged fifty-seven, was the son of John and Mary Holmes. John Holmes was born October 22, 1738, married Mary (Allen ?), who died April 19, 1807, aged sixty-eight. He was a comrade of Elisha Belden in the campaigns of 1757 and 1759, and died December 16, 1821. Phineas Holmes, father of John, born April 24, 1713, married, February 5, 1736, Elizabeth Grimes, and died July 5, 1785. His wife died October 7, 1783, aged sixty-six. Jonas Holmes, father of Phineas, married, May 11, 1692, Sarah ———; was a shipwright at Wethersfield (Stepney) and died 1732.

Martha (Wright) Holmes, who died May 12, 1864, aged seventy-nine, was the daughter of Giles Wright. Giles Wright was born June 11, 1756, at Wethersfield, was a soldier in the revolution; married, April 12, 1781, Abiah Dickinson. Justus Wright, father of Giles, was born March 5, 1724, soldier in the revolution, married Anne Williams, born May 5, 1722. Deacon Benjamin Wright, father of Justus, was born December 6, 1686, died 1753; married, June 18, 1719, Hannah Holmes, born December 25, 1694, daughter of Jonas and Sarah Holmes, mentioned above. Deacon Joseph Wright, father of Deacon Benjamin Wright, was born in 1639, died December 17, 1714; married (second) Mercy Stoddard, who was born in November, 1652, daughter of John Stoddard, born in England and settled in Wethersfield, married Maria Foote, daughter of Nathaniel, immigrant, mentioned elsewhere in this work. Thomas Wright, father of Deacon Joseph, is said to have been born November 10, 1610, came from England, and lived at Watertown and Wethersfield.

Anne (Williams) Wright, born May 5, 1722, was a daughter of Captain Jacob Williams, born February 27, 1688, died January 29, 1751; married, July 29, 1719, Eunice Standish, born May 31, 1698, died April 14, 1770. Captain Jacob Williams, father of Captain Jacob Williams, was born March 7, 1665, and died September 26, 1712; married, December 10, 1685, Sarah Gilbert, born December 1, 1661. Thomas Williams, father of Captain Jacob Williams, was one of the first

Resided on the place now (1890) occupied by Harvey Hurlbut's heirs, in Black Lane, so called (Cornelia Hurlbut and her sister, Mrs. Burdett, being his descendants, through his youngest son Michael), and the old brown house which they occupy in Back Lane, stands upon the site of their emigrant ancestor's house.—See picture, p. 726. Michael's will was probated 18 Nov., 1684, evidently only a few days after his death, as he executed a codicil thereto Sept. 22d, 1684. His estate inventoried at £628; he gave to his wife, Ann, the home lot for life, then to go to his son Michael; to his oldest son Thomas he gives the house where Thomas then lived with barn and $1\frac{1}{2}$ ac. of ld.; also, other pieces of ld.; to his son Isaac, one half of the homestead bo't of Luke Hitchcock and other lds.; to Jacob, his 3rd son, among other lds, 16 acres at "Two-Stone Brook," (now Griswoldville), being ld. given him in 1674, by the Town—which ld. with other pieces purchased by Jacob, has remained in the G. family to this day. teenth century, and settled in Solihull. They were of local distinction, and held many county offices. They possessed a coat-of-arms as follows: Argent, a fesse gules between two greyhounds current, sable. The name was originally written Greswold and Gryswild.

(I) Michael Griswold, the immigrant ancestor of this branch, was born in England, and owned lands in Wethersfield, Connecticut, as early as 1640. There were two other Griswold immigrants, Matthew and Edward, whom we know were brothers; both came in 1639 and settled in Windsor, Connecticut. Another brother of Matthew and Edward remained in England, Thomas, as proved by the deposition of George Griswold, son of Edward, in 1700. The father of the before-mentioned Matthew, Edward and Thomas, was Edward Griswold, of Kenilworth, Warwickshire. Michael Griswold, the immigrant ancestor of Frank D. Griswold, was not a brother of the before-mentioned Griswolds, though some early writers have assumed that he was. It is probable that he was a cousin.

Michael Griswold, the immigrant ancestor, was the only freeman of the name in Wethersfield, Connecticut, in 1659. He held the offices of constable, assessor and appraiser of land, and was a mason by trade. He owned land at Two-Stone Brook, which had been granted him by the town, together with other lots. He died September 26, 1684, and left a will, probated November 18, 1684, in which he mentioned his wife Ann, sons Thomas, Michael, Isaac and Jacob, daughters Hester, Abigail and Sarah, and grandchildren. Children, born in Wethersfield: Thomas, October 22, 1646; Hester, May 8, 1648; Mary, January 28, 1650; Michael, February 14, 1652, died young; Abigail, June 8, 1655; Isaac, September 30, 1658; Jacob, of whom further; Michael, March 7, 1666-67.

(II) Jacob, son of Michael Griswold, was born in Wethersfield, April 15, 1660, died July 22, 1737. He married, December 10, 1685, Mary, daughter of Deacon Joseph and Mary (Stoddard) Wright; she died April 25, 1735, aged seventy years. He inherited land from his father at Two-Stone Brook, now Griswoldville, and was doubtless the first settler there. This land, together with other parcels purchased by him, has remained in the family to this day. In his will, dated February 10, 1735-36, he gave his home lot to his son Ephraim, and made it appear that he had already given to sons Jacob, Michael, and Ebenezer, their portions in advance. His estate inventoried at £268, 17s. 9d. Children, born at Wethersfield: John, September 25, 1686; Mary, June 19, 1688; Jacob, March 26, 1690;

Anna, August 14, 1693; Sarah, March 18, 1695; Hester, March 13, 1696; Joseph, baptized August 21, 1697 (?); Josiah, August 20, 1698, probably died young; Josiah, January 4, 1700; Ebenezer, of whom further; Ephraim, September 23, 1704; Lydia, September 4, 1707.

(III) Lieutenant Ebenezer Griswold, son of Jacob Griswold, was born in Wethersfield, October 25, 1702, died December 7, 1772. He married, December 13, 1734, Deborah, daughter of Henry Grimes. She died June 7, 1765, aged forty-nine. Children, born in Wethersfield: Elias, February 22, 1736, died May 18, 1741; Zehiel, June 22, 1738; Elizur, August 10, 1742, died November 9, 1744; Timothy, October 24, 1744; Anne, October 10, 1746; Elias, of whom further; Elizur, October 30, 1753; Sarah, May 7, 1758.

(IV) Elias, son of Lieutenant Ebenezer Griswold, was born in Wethersfield, October 6, 1750. He came to Buckland, Massachusetts, in 1785. He married, December 8, 1773, Rhoda, daughter of Joseph Flower. Children: Elias, June 4, 1775; Horace, May 27, 1777; Joseph, of whom further; Simeon; Whiting.

(V) Joseph, son of Elias Griswold, was born about 1785. He lived with his father at Buckland, Massachusetts. In 1828 he located at Colerain, Massachusetts, and began to manufacture sash, doors and blinds. In 1830 he also began to make gimlets, augers and shaving boxes, and in 1832 he erected the cotton mill with sixteen looms, but before the end of the first year he doubled its capacity. In 1835 he added the second cotton mill, and in 1840 incorporated his business under the name of the Griswoldville Manufacturing Company. In 1851 the mill that was built first was destroyed by fire, but such was the enterprise and energy of the owners that within twelve days the structure was rebuilt. In 1856 another mill, the structure built in 1835, was burned to the ground, and its place was taken by a new mill built in 1858. The main mill is fifty by two hundred and fifty feet, two stories and a half in height, with an ell forty by sixty feet, a boiler house, cotton house and other out-buildings. In 1865 the company erected at Willis Place, a second brick mill for the manufacture of cotton, fifty by two hundred feet, three stories high, with a forty by seventy extension. Both mills are on North river and have excellent water power, with auxiliary steam power for emergencies. Several hundred hands are employed, making print cloth and sheeting. The company owns a large part of the village, and leases the tenements to the millhands.

Mr. Griswold married Louise Denison, born son and Ephraim, and makes it appear that he had already given sons Jacob, Michael and Ebenezer, their portions in advance; will proven, 2 Aug., 1737.

There is still (and, perhaps, will ever be) some uncertainty as to which Jacob, this "first sett. of Litchfield" was—whether it was Jacob (s. of Thos., s. of Michael,) b. 1675, and given FAM. 5 in this geneal. or Jacob* (s. That night the Capt. managed, while his captors slept, to loose his pinions and escaped to his home, carrying with him their guns. Orcutt, also, connects with Capt. Jacob, in this emigr. to and sett. of Litchfield, two other bros. JOHN and DAVID. We cannot figure it out that way. Besides these twenty-eight, who owned house lots in 1765, there were then just about as many more who had located on outlots in different parts of the town, as these had been successively divided off to the respective holders of house lots, in accordance with the original plan of the settlement. The following twenty-six names, together with those just given, comprise all the landowners and citizens of position at the organization of the town. These fifty-four men may be called, in strict justice, the actual FOUNDERS OF WILLIAMSTOWN. A few worthy names besides these, like Allen Curries for one, had labored faithfully in the very beginnings, and had retired from the grounds; and a few of these, like Joseph Ballard and Seth Hudson, may not have been residents in 1765; but the first town-meeting was held July 15, 1765, and from the "List" of that year it appears that the taxable polls were only fifty-nine. Only about 578 acres were then under cultivation in the town, as appears from the listed tax of $426 at fifteen shillings per "improved" acre. Isaac Searle and Nehemiah Smedley were the only proprietors taxed for money at interest, the former for £700 and the latter for £126. These are the names:—

The town boasted at its inception of fifty-seven yoke of oxen, just about one yoke to each head of a family; of eighty-three sheep; two dairies possessed six cows each, and two others four; and the four largest flocks of sheep counted eighteen, fourteen, thirteen, eleven.

Now, it is to be noticed, that these men had not been at any time wholly absorbed in the pressing cares to provide a new home and maintenance for their families in what was then strictly a wilderness. Ever after they heard the news in the late autumn of 1759 of General Wolfe's great victory at Quebec, they knew well enough there would be no more French and Indian wars. They knew that Fort Massachusetts and West Hoosac Fort had no their significance, though fully manned up to that time. With feeling of security and stability thereby induced, and a consequent resolution to make a permanent home for themselves and their children in a beautiful and healthful and fertile spot, there continued the desires and efforts to secure and maintain religious and educational opportunities. They built their log school which was to serve for the present for preaching also. May 21, they "voted and Chose Benjamin Simonds a Commetree to Copy of Colonel Ephraim Williams sur-will out of the Probate in the County of Hampshire"; and a little later 3s. 4d. were paid Simonds for a copy of the will. In less than a month among the causes stated in the warrant for the next meeting of proprietors was this, "To chuse a Commetree on the affair of Colonel Ephraim Williams Willing Land or money to ward a free school West Hoosuck and said Commetree to piosecute the same." A meeting, however, it was voted "to dismiss the article."

In truth, the question of a minister was the more pressing. It came up to it boldly again and again. They had had hard work and been at much expense, even to get a suitable man to try for settlement. In two cases, where the candidate was willing, constituency disapproved of him. At last a young man from Milford, Connecticut, named Whitman Welch, a graduate of College in 1762, seemed to meet the views of all parties concerned. In the legal call for a meeting "att the School House," on July 1765, these points are stated:—

- 1st To See if the Proprietors will Give Mr. Whitman Welch a Call to the work the ministry in this Town
- 2^d To See What Settlement they will Give Him
- 3^d To See What Sallary they will Give Him
- 4th To Chuse a Commetree to give mr Welch a Call

To these queries the meeting in question promptly responded:

- 2^d Voted to Give mr Welch Eighty Pound Settlement Lawfull money one Half to be paid the first year the other Half to be Paid Second year

Josiah Wright was the son of Jonathan and Hannah (Hand) Wright. He was born on September 19, 1714 in Wethersfield, Hartford Co., Connecticut. He married Abigail Boardman on May 15, 1735 in Wethersfield. Josiah, Abigail and their youngest children moved from Wethersfield, Hartford Co., Connecticut to in about 1764, after their eldest sons Jonathan and Josiah were married in Wethersfield. While some of their children went with them to Williamstown, Berkshire Co., Massachusetts, their son Josiah remained in Wethersfield. Evidence of where they went when they left Wethersfield, and an interesting description of the family is contained in the book Origins in Williamstown (MA), Perry, Arthur Latham - 1894, page 612:

"There came to Williamstown in 1764, from Weathersfield, Connecticut, a man by the name of Josiah Wright. His wife's name was Abigail, and both became members of the Williamstown church, it is to be presumed, by letter. They had a son, Josiah Wright, Junior, and probably several other sons. There was a Gideon Wright and his wife Sarah, who were also very early members of the church; and it is not to be doubted that a pew was set aside in the meetinghouse of 1768 for the Wright family. There is an epitaph in the old burial-ground by Hemlock Brook, -- "Mr. Jonathan Wright, who died April 10, A.D. 1766 in the 30th year of his age." Justice Wright and his wife, Mercy, had children born in town, 1779-1782; and Stephen Bacon, 2d, told the writer that when he was a small boy -- that is, at the beginning of this century -- there was an Aaron Wright, who lived on the Upper Hopper Brook above Bacons'. But, as we shall see shortly, interest in the Wright family turns rather on a locality than on persons particular. Josiah Wright, Junior, bought of Samuel Clark in July, 1772, for 5 pounds, the meadow lot No. 63, which is the meadow lot directly south of Blair's (now Hubbell's). As we have seen before, Blair's original house stood north of the road, in what is now an orchard; and there is some considerable evidence that Wright owned meadow lot No. 62 as well as 63, and, at any rate, his access to 63 must have been past the present Hubbell buildings to the south. However this may be (and it is not important), it is certain that Josiah Wright's son settled not long after his arrival in town on first-division fifty-acre lot No. 61, the northern end of which comes up to the Blair road before that road turns sharply north into the Stratton road. The eastern side of Wright's lot 61 flanks what was then Aaron Bacon's lot 63 (these were both fifty-acre lots), and Bacon must have come out to the Blair road very near where the senior Wright built his first home. This house was superseded after a while by a brick house, which has only lately been taken down, and about which cluster a series of weird traditions, which the future novelist of the town (may God speed his coming!) may likely enough work up into a tale that shall outlive these imperfect records now being woven into a loose fabric that may ravel out in time.

It is not at all certain, hardly probable, that the brick house was built while the elder Wright was still in the saddle there. If not, it was certainly built by one or more of his sons. The family remained in possession, and gradually acquired a bad reputation. The father and mother moved on to Arlington, Vermont, where Abigail died in February, 1795, and Josiah in February, 1799, he in his eighty-seventh year and she in her seventy-ninth; and at some time between the close of the war and the close of the century, the inmates (inhabitants) of the brick house were thought so ill of by their neighbors that the latter lent a ready ear to a story of murder committed by the former, and repeated it over, little by little, with ghostly details and additions, to their children, from several of whom the writer has derived it directly, though, of course, with quaint and considerable variations. This is not history, nor does it aspire to become such; but there may have been some basis of fact, and surely a stiff basis of locality, for a story that has been told under breath, and not without shudders, for several generations, in the Blair family and in the Williams family, -- the two nearest neighbors, -- and also in the Corbin and other families at the South Part. It is the only tale of robbery and murder and ghosts that connects itself, even in dimmest outline, with the early story of Williamstown, and runs in general in something like the way following: The Wrights had become considerably indebted to a certain pedlar driving one horse who frequented those parts in quest of the usual dribbles of gain. The neighbors has seen him drive up to the brick house, had watched for his return, and had not discovered it. In the mean time, mysterious movements were observed in and around the house. Lights were seen at unusual times, and in usually unfrequented parts of the house. The suspicions of the neighbors, that something wrong was going on in and around the Wright house, were thoroughly aroused, and these suspicions were mutually inflamed by communicating them. In a day or two, all was still and apparently abandoned at the brick house. Neighbors combined in fear and dread, but with all due resolution, to search for the body of the pedlar and for his various effects. Possible places of interment or hiding away were scrutinized, sheds and barn and cellar were examined, and nothing was found anywhere of a questionable character, until at last the pedlar's horse was discovered in the best room of the brick house, with cloths wrapped round his hoofs, apparently so that his stampings on the floor might not be heard by the neighbors, before the inmates (inhabitants) had gotten a good ways off from the premises. No stampings or neighings from the real horse had then been heard by anybody; but years and years afterwards, and to many successive occupants of the house, mysterious sounds issued from that room, slight but distinct, treadings on that floor, deadened as if falling on cloths, and neighings, not equine and earthly, but stifled and supernatural, as if the ghost of the pedlar had come back to seek for his horse, and the horse had greeted his old master with at least the distant echoes of accustomed sounds. There are old people, still living, who have confessed, in the writer's hearing, to strange perturbations of mind as they have entered or quitted, or even thought of (in the night), the square room of the old brick house above Blair's."

Ezekiel Bacon was previously for some time a citizen and lawyer of Williamstown, and a full characterization of him will perhaps be in order upon a later page of this book. Both John Bacon and his son were prominent in the politics of the county in the opening years of the new century. Both were Democrats. Both became members of Congress, the father in 1801-03, and the son in 1807-13. Ezekiel Bacon was very influential in Washington; he was chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means, and he was instrumental in securing the nomination and confirmation of Joseph Story, later our most distinguished jurist, as a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States in 1811, before the latter was even aware that he was a candidate. Rev. Dr. Field, in his "Stockbridge," says of John Bacon, "He had a strong mind, was fond of debate and tenacious of his opinions, but decided in prosecuting what he esteemed his duty." He, with all his colleague trustees of the Free School, petitioned the Legislature in 1793 for the College charter, and was with all of them continued as trustees of the College. He resigned this position, however, in 1804, the second in the file of nine to fall out, David Noble having died the previous year. Bacon died in 1820 in his eighty-third year.

9. SETH SWIFT of Williamstown was a native of Kent, and a graduate of Yale in 1774. Kent, with its neighboring towns of Canaan and Cornwall and Litchfield, had already sent to Williamstown many of its early settlers and church-members; and it was but natural for the young graduate to look northward up the Housatonic toward its sources for a settlement. He read his theology in part with Rev. Dr. West in Stockbridge, and was ordained in Williamstown in May, 1779. The church had become considerably demoralized during the four years after Rev. Whitman Welch, its first pastor, had left it, never to return, in order to accompany Colonel Benedict Arnold from Boston to Quebec in the winter of 1775-76. But sixty-one members welcomed Mr. Swift in 1779, while two hundred and seventy-three were added in the twenty-eight years of his faithful ministry. No list of Mr. Welch's members has ever been found; but it is more than probable that they were the same as greeted the new pastor four years later, and the following are the names:—

Enoch Bacon was previously for some time a solicitor and lawyer of Williamstown, and a full characterization of him will perhaps be in order upon a later page of this book. John John Bacon and his son were prominent in the politics of the county in the opening years of the new century. Charles Henry & Luzetta Gilbert and Their Family

Charles Henry Gilbert was born on August 27 1821 in Rensselaer County, New York. This is in eastern New York between the Hudson River and the Vermont and Massachusetts border. His parents were Asahel Wood Gilbert Jr. (1790-1862) who was born in Hebron, CT and Mary Wood (1791-1842) who was born in New York. I think she may have been from Washington County, NY (just north of Rensselaer County) since that is where they were married in 1816.

Charles Henry's parents appeared in Troy, Rensselaer County, NY in the 1820 & 1830 Census, but by the 1840 Census have moved to Villanovia, Chautauqua County, NY. Charles Henry had at least two siblings that stayed in Troy, however. One was sister Mary Ann (b.1820) who married Jacob Jacobs (b.1812) and the other a brother Asahel Wood (b.1818) who married Jane Ann (b.1815). In 1840, Charles and his parents established a farm in southwestern New York. He was 19 and his parents lived near William & Plumilla Wright. He married their daughter Luzetta Clara Wright on July 4 1841. Unfortunately, his mother Mary Wood Gilbert died July 11 1842. By the 1850 Census, both father Asahel and Charles Henry had moved to Hanover, Chautauqua County, NY. Father Asahel had married Phebe (1787-1867) and had a helper on his farm. He called himself a "produce dealer". Charles & Luzetta had four children by 1850 (Mary Luzetta b.1842; Asahel William b.1844; Plumilla "Jane" b.1847; Henry "Birdie" b.1849). Later in 1853 they had another daughter named Emma. It appears Charles Henry's father and stepmother stayed in Chautauqua County. Asahel Wood Gilbert Jr. died in 1862 and is buried next to both of his wives in Forestville Cemetery.

According to Charles Henry's son Asahel William's obituary, "the family came west in 1856 settling in Wisconsin and making the trip from Buffalo to Sheboygan by steamboat on the Great Lakes. Two years later he came to Delaware County, Iowa." I noticed that Luzetta's sister Mercy Wright Ingram and her family had a child in Wisconsin during this travel period to Iowa. They later settled in Mason City, IA. Luzetta's parents were with her in the 1860 Census in Delaware County. Based on this, it appears that Luzetta's sister and parents accompanied them on this adventure.

In 1860, Charles's family had settled in Honey Creek, Delaware County, IA. The census form showed they had five children; and like I said before, William & Plumilla Wright lived with them. Their son Henry "Birdie" died in 1863 and I could find no further records of their youngest daughter Emma after 1860.

Their oldest child Mary (1842-1932) married Lewis Hubbell (1839-1917) in 1862. He was also from Honey Creek, Delaware County, IA and the family farmed. The couple had two sons and then three daughters. Mary & Lewis stayed in the county and two of their daughters Bertha Maud (1878-1968) and Grace (1881-1960) married Dorman brothers and raised their families in Delaware County. "Maud" and Oscar (1871-1921) had four daughters and Grace and George (1878-1917) had two sons and a daughter. Both Dorman brothers were dentists. Mary's son Barsley (1864-?) went to Nebraska with his wife Anna (1864-?) and had a daughter and son. Her son Edward (1869-?) with his wife Vinette (1871-?) had three daughters and a son and went to Pocahontas County, IA and later to Minnesota. Mary's youngest daughter Kate (1885-1979) went to North Carolina and later to Mississippi with her husband Duane Rosenkrans (1889-1980) and son.

Charles Henry & Luzetta's son Asahel (1844-1919) was called "AW". He married Loretta Hooker (1849-1935) from Richland Township, Delaware County. Her family also originally came from another part of Chautauqua County, NY. AW and Loretta farmed in Honey Creek and were listed in the 1870 Census. It is unclear whether they took over Charles Henry's farm or not. They had a daughter Willa (1871-1959) and a son Rudolphus (1873-1945) while living in Delaware County.

Charles Henry & Luzetta had left Honey Creek sometime in the 1860's. They came to Hardin County. Their daughter Millie (Plumilla Jane) came to Hardin County too. In 1870, the couple farmed alone in Hardin Township, Hardin County, IA and daughter Millie was a schoolteacher living in Jackson Township.

By 1874, Asahel William Gilbert also left Delaware County to join Charles Henry, mother Luzetta Wright and sister Plumilla and her husband Alexander McCoy in Hardin County.

I would like to thank Maureen Wilson great granddaughter of Mary Gilbert Hubbell for her assistance. My sister in law Beverly Gilbert started this whole history many years ago and was helped after meeting this woman.

I am also submitting pictures of these people. Check out "Delaware County Pictures".

Adonijah Wright 1807-1888

Adonijah Wright was born in New York to Truman and Electa Wright on October 5, 1807. Adonijah moved with his parents through the state of New York and across the Ohio Valley to the farmlands of the Midwest. He was in his late teens or early 20s when the family moved to Troupsburg, NY. We believe it was here that Adonijah met and married Amanda sometime around 1830. In the 1830 census they are in a household next door to Truman. No children are enumerated.

As best we can tell, their first child was Esther Ann, born July 18, 1832. Esther was Elaine Anthony Watson's great-grandmother. There is conflicting information as to where Esther was born. Information in different censuses identify her birthplace as New York, Ohio, or Pennsylvania. We know the Wright family left New York for Ohio sometime between 1830 and 1835, so any of these is possible.

Adonijah and Amanda had at least six other children. Five of these children were born in Ohio. Records show another baby born in Illinois, but this child did not survive (possibly dying at birth).

The known children of Adonijah and Amanda are listed below.

1. Eliza Wright (1835 -) may have died young. There is nothing known about her.
2. Sarah (Sally) Maria Wright (1838 -) married John Hall in 1856. John and Sally had three children. After John died in 1862, she married Columbus B. Jelley and had at least three additional children in this marriage.
3. John W. Wright (1844 - after 1910) married Sarah J (Jennie) Teal in Kansas, and later moved back to Illinois. They are known to have had at least four children.
4. Mary E. Wright (1847 -) married Jim Shepperd. There are no known children.
5. William Henry Wright (c.1849 -) married Rachael Davis. There are no known children.
6. Malissa A. Wright - born and died September 1854.

Adonijah and Amanda raised their children on a farm in Sangamon Township, near the town of Centerville, Illinois. In the 1870 census, Adonijah is noted as "can't write" which was not unusual for his generation. We have copies of documents with his signature in the family's possession, so we know that he was at least able to sign his name. There are also a handful of letters written between some of the children, so his children most certainly learned to read and write.

Horton, John, was born in the town of Phillips, Putnam county, June 29, 1823, son of Benjamin and Millie (Roe) Horton, both natives of Putnam county, N. Y. The Hortons bought the first farm in Phillips. The grandparents, John Horton and John Roe, were farmers of Putnam county. Benjamin Horton, father of John, was a farmer and teamster in Putnam county, and spent his last days with his daughter in Bethel, Conn. John Horton commenced for himself when thirteen years of age, by working in a brickyard and teaming. He came to Steuben county in 1858, where he has since resided. Mr. Horton has bought and sold several farms, the last being the Tolmenson farm of 100 acres, where he has carried on general farming since 1886. In 1855 he married Lucy Ann Lockwood, of Ulster county, by whom he had one son, John, who married Mandy Baily. He died in 1892, leaving three children: Estella, Lyman and Bertha. Their mother died in 1880. Mr. Horton enlisted in 1864, and served until the close of the war. He participated in the battle at City Point, Siege of Petersburg, battle of Five Forks, and was in the front line at Appomattox Court House, and was wounded at Hatcher's Run.

Holt, George, was born in Troupsburg, November 24, 1828, and is the second of fifteen children born to John W. and Charlotte (Wright) Holt, he a native of Ontario county, born January 27, 1807. The maternal grandfather, Truman Wright, was a pioneer of Troupsburg. The paternal grandfather, Amos Holt, died in Ontario in 1810. Jesse Wright, father of Truman Wright, spent his last days in Troupsburg. He was in seven campaigns of the Revolutionary war, and was at Lexington, White Plains, and Bennington. John W. Holt, father of George, was a farmer by occupation, and for many years was highway commissioner. He died April 27, 1862, and Mrs. Holt September 1, 1870. George Holt was reared on the farm and educated at Alfred Academy. He has always followed farming, but taught school when young. In 1852 he married Eliza, daughter of Joshua and Elizabeth (Pease) Sluyter, both natives of Delaware county, who came to Troupsburg when young, and where they died. He was in the carding business. Mr. and Mrs. Holt have reared one adopted daughter, Bertha, wife of Charles Hill, a farmer of Potter county, Pa.; they have three children: Emily, Fred, and William F. September 17, 1864, Mr. Holt enlisted in Co. H, 141st N. Y. Vols., and was honorably discharged June 8, 1865. He was in the battle of Bentonville, and many skirmishes, and was with Sherman on the march to the sea. He is a member of Post Baily, No 351, G. A. R., of Troupsburg.

Hubbard, William H., was born in Owego, Tioga county, N. Y., October 6, 1840, and is the eighth of nine children born to Ansel and Mary A. (Mead) Hubbard, both natives of Dryden, N. Y., he born July 20, 1800, and she November 13, 1799. The grandparents were William R. and Mariah (Jinks) Hubbard; William R. was born in Glasgow, Scotland, and came to America at an early day in company with six brothers who settled in Massachusetts. He came to Tioga county, N. Y., being pioneer of that county where he died. Ansel Hubbard was a brickmaker in Owego, where he made brick for the old court house. In 1842 he settled in Troupsburg, where he died December 16, 1874, and his wife January 31, 1877. He was a Wesleyan Methodist minister. William H. Hubbard's principal occupation has been farming, and he and his wife now own a farm of 276 acres and make a specialty of dairy farming. In 1869 he married Alice R., daughter of Hiram and Amanda Morton, who were early settlers of Troupsburg on the farm now owned by Mrs. Hubbard. Mrs. Morton died

Louis Thompson McCrath

Page 264, 265, 266 - Louis Thompson McCrath now one of the more venerable of the native sons still residing in Grand Rapids, was born on Fulton street and at the age of two years his family moved on a farm. He is a scion of a family that was founded in Kent County about one year before Michigan Territory was admitted to statehood, and his memory compasses the greater part of the magnificent development and progress of the county and of the city of Grand Rapids within the long intervening years. The family name was originally spelled McCraith. Mr. McCrath long held precedence as one of the substantial business men of Grand Rapids, where he was for many years prominently identified with the meat-packing business, so that peace and prosperity attend him and his wife in the gracious evening of their long and worthy lives. He has lived virtually retired for somewhat more than fifteen years, but his active association with business affairs covered a period of half a century. On a farm extending along the present Michigan street in Grand Rapids, in a district now given over to business buildings and fine residence properties, Louis T. McCrath was born on the 10th of June, 1846, and is a son of James and Ellen (Wood) McCrath, both of whom were born in Scotland. In 1836, the year before Michigan became a state, James McCrath came to Grand Rapids as a member of a party of masons who were to construct the foundation for the first grist mill to be erected on the site of the future city. This mill, long known as the Sweet mill, stood on the site of the present Berkey & Gay furniture factory. At that time the site of Grand Rapids was marked by a few buildings in the midst of the surrounding forests, and these pioneer masons made their way hither along the pioneer blazed trails through the dense forests, James McCrath, Sr., grandfather of Louis T. of this sketch, having likewise been a member of this company of pioneer artisans. James McCrath, Jr., finally purchased land in Kent county, and there reclaimed from a veritable wilderness his pioneer farm, this old homestead having continued to be his place of residence until his death in 1897, aged ninety years, and his wife likewise having attained to the advanced age of eighty-two years. Theirs were earnest and noble lives of unassuming worth and of honest industry. Of their six children only two are now living, Louis T., of this review, and Walter C., who recently sold the old homestead farm of the pioneer era and who had there continued his residence until his recent removal to Grand Rapids. Louis T. McCrath gained his early education by attending the pioneer schools at such times as his services were not in requisition in connection with the arduous work on the home farm, and at the age of fourteen years he took a position as clerk in the McConnell hardware store, on the site of the present Hotel Pantlind, his compensation having been five dollars a month for two years. He was thus engaged at the outbreak of the Civil war, and his youth prevented his acceptance when he first attempted to enlist in defense of the Union, when he was but sixteen years old. However, he and his four brothers served valiantly as soldiers in Michigan regiments during the greater part of the war, and two of the brothers became commissioned officers. Louis T. McCrath was in service during the later years of the war, and as a member of the Twenty-first and Fourteenth Michigan Volunteer Infantries he was with General Sherman's forces on the historic march from Atlanta to the sea and thence onward to the national capital, where, at the close of the war, he took part in the grand review of the victorious armies. After receiving his honorable discharge Mr. McCrath returned to Grand Rapids where he engaged in the livery business near the present Hotel Pantlind. After his marriage, in 1866, when he was twenty, he settled on a farm east of the city. He gave special attention to the raising of cattle and horses, and as an excellent judge of live stock values he was selected, in 1885, as the manager of the Grand Rapids branch packing house established by the great Chicago packing concern of Morris & Company, with which he continued as a valued executive in this capacity for virtually a quarter of a century, he having resigned his position in 1909 and having since lived retired from active business. Mr. McCrath profited largely also from his judicious real estate operation, and his is still the owner of valuable realty in his home city, he having erected the Kent Hotel, near the Union depot, and later having been associated with Henam N. Moore, in 1905, in the erection of the present and modern Crathmore Hotel on the same site, the name of the new hotel being a combination of the surnames of the builders. Since his retirement from business Mr. McCrath and his wife have traveled somewhat extensively and have passed numerous winter seasons in California. In Grand Rapids they now maintain their home with their only child, Fanna, who is the wife of D. Emmett Welsh, M D., and this home is replete in fine works of art and various curios that have been collected by Mr. and Mrs. McCrath and by Dr. and Mrs. Welsh from all parts of the world. The father of Mr. McCrath was made a Mason, in Scotland, one hundred years ago, and in Grand Rapids he was associated with twelve others in the organizing of Grand River Lodge, No. 34, A. F. & A. M., the founding of this pioneer lodge having taken place in the law office of Thomas Church. It is interesting to record that of this historic lodge Louis T. McCrath has been a member many years. He is a Republican in politics. May 29, 1866, was marked by the marriage of Mr. McCrath to Miss M. Jane Richards, and thus their ideal companionship has continued during a period of nearly sixty years. Of their only child mention has already been made. Mrs. McCrath was born in Ohio and came to Paris township when six years old, and is a representative of another of the honored pioneer families of Kent County. It was in Paris township that Mr. McCrath long maintained his high-grade stock farm. Mrs. McCrath's parents, John and Emma (Wright) Richards, came to Kent county about seventy-five years ago and settled in Paris township, now in the city. Her forebears served in the Revolution and the War of 1812, and were active in both.

LAW is a rule adopted by members of a club, corporation, or society. The term is often used to distinguish from the constitution or charter of the organization.
 Laws usually concern such matters as the time and place of meetings and the methods of voting. More important matters, such as the powers of officers, are defined in the constitution. Normally a constitution can be changed only when almost all the members agree. But bylaws usually may be changed by majority vote. See also PARLIAMENTARY LAW. E.N.G.

D, bird, RICHARD EVELYN (1888-1958), is an American aviator, navigator, explorer, and naval officer.
 He is the first man to fly over both the North and the South poles. In 1928, he organized a scientific expedition to the Antarctic. He took the most elaborate equipment ever used in exploration. Thirty-two scientists went with him. Among them were specialists in geology, meteorology, physics, radio engineering, geography, topography, and aerology. Commander Byrd established a base near the edge of the Ross Shelf Ice.

 From there he flew over the South Pole in November, 1929. Congress made him a rear admiral for his services.
 On a second expedition in 1933-1935, Byrd conducted a scientific survey of the Antarctic Continent. He explored 900 miles of coast line around Marie Byrd Land during his third trip in 1939-1940. He led another expedition in 1947, and was named officer in charge of a 1955-1956 survey.

Flight to the North Pole. Byrd went to Greenland with the MacMillan expedition in 1925. Airplanes were used then for the first time in Arctic exploration. He was flight commander on the trip. He believed that a flight to the Pole was possible, decided to make the trip by plane, and took Floyd Bennett as his pilot. On May 9, 1926, they flew a Fokker monoplane from Spitsbergen to the Pole and back in fifteen and a half hours.

Byrd attempted to fly across the Atlantic Ocean to Paris in July, 1927. His Fokker airplane was called America. He took another pilot and two navigators with him. They were forced down at sea, but were rescued.

Byrd was born in Winchester, Va., on October 25, 1888. He studied at Virginia Military Institute and the University of Virginia. Then he went to the United States Naval Academy, graduating in 1912. He entered aviation service after four years at sea. Byrd assisted in developing important navigation devices and methods.
 He is the author of the books Alone; Skyward; Little America; and Discovery. Byrd is the brother of U.S.
 Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia. See also ANTARCTICA; POLAR EXPLORATION. J.Cot.

 TURE (History).

 sentative and ten years as sociate Justice of the United States Supreme Court in 1941. Sixteen months later

 ident Franklin Roosevelt as Economic Stabilizer and

So, You Want A Horse !!

by Mary McKinney

(Editors Note)

Mary McKinney is well known in this area for her knowledge of horsemanship and instruction. Lesa Baker, shown here taking instruction from Mary, is astride Serriena her four year old mare. Lesa has been taking instructions from Mary for three years; she looks and rides beautifully. Lesa is the daughter of Denver and Diane Baker from Richmond, Indiana.

Mary and Don McKinney reside on Nolands Fork road north of Centerville, Indiana. (Don was my Speech teacher at Centerville High School. Ed.)

You are about to begin a hobby which can offer pleasure and never-ending challenge. Horseback riding is an invigorating and relaxing way of exercise. Unlike many hobbies, this hobby can be pursued from childhood through old age. It offers satisfaction and healthful activity at each level of age and skill. The more you learn, the more fun is available to you; a lifetime of study and practice cannot exhaust the knowledge nor the achievement that is available.

First, the rider may learn from a trained horse. A horse is a large animal for a "toy", but it is a timid one. More often than not it will be willing to yield to your command if you take the time and patience to make it understand. When terrified, it may be unmanageable. Quiet yet firm, frequent, and consistent handling will pay great returns to you and your horse. You are the master. Any fear or reluctance to take command may be sensed by your horse.

After you learn to master your position and balance, and develop quiet, steady, and responsive hands in riding, you may train a young horse for your own. Sufficient skill to produce a fine mount is neither quickly nor easily attained. Not all riders may aspire to be trainers. As stated before, joy and satisfaction can be realized at each of the various levels. The greater your interest and hard work (it's hard to call anything that's so much fun "work"), the greater will be your rewards.

Let us consider the saddle horse that you might choose. Morgans, quarter horses, Arabians, walking horses, appaloosas, thoroughbreds, saddle-breds, connemaras, or any combination of these breeds are among those available. The size of the horse should compare favorably with the size of the rider. The purpose for which the horse will be used demands consideration when purchasing also. Some breeds are adapted to certain types of riding, such as: jumping, reining, park, pleasure, equitation, contest, or dressage. If you intend to show your horse, breed and conformation (the horse's appearance and body structure) will be important in making your decision when buying.

Quality and temperament vary greatly within each breed and each individual horse. After the buyer has chosen the kind of riding he desires, he would benefit by getting advice from an experienced horseman who does that type of riding. Questions about the soundness and the habits of the horse should be considered.

A young or beginning rider should begin with an older, docile mount. Better still, would be riding under a capable instructor for a season. Not only would the rider then learn if his fascination for riding was genuine, but when purchasing could choose a more challenging mount.

Many parents buying their child his first horse are prone to select a horse on the basis of beauty. Or, they may think that having a young colt to grow up with their child is good. Both conditions can Blue Lodge, Chapter and Council of the Masonic order, the Knights of Pythias and the Modern Woodmen of America. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church.

On December 26, 1906, Doctor Cline was married to Miss Pearl Martin, who was born at Bement, Ill., daughter of Charles Martin.

CLINE, Ezra, was born in Ohio in an early day, and came to Piatt County in 1839. In 1854 he was married to Mrs. Eliza (Williams) Ater, and they had five children to attain to maturity, namely: John T., Jacob C., Sarepta C., Joseph D., and Mary M. Mr. Cline died in 1877.

CLOW, Berlyn, who is connected with the business interests of Monticello is engaged as a hardware dealer at the county seat. He was born at Cisco, Ill., in 1881, a son of G. H. and Jennie (Kistler) Clow, natives of Post Oak, Ill., and Fairfield County, O., respectively. They were married in Illinois and located on a farm near Cisco, but in 1899 moved to Monticello. There the father embarked in a hardware business, but later traded it for a livery business, which he, in conjunction with another son, Lewis Clow, is conducting at present.

After attending the grammar and high schools of Monticello, Mr. Clow was graduated from the latter, and then began his business career as a hardware merchant. For the past three years he has been engaged in this line of endeavor, and has built up a profitable trade, which shows a healthy and steady increase annually.

On November 11, 1908, Mr. Clow was married at Monticello, to Eva L. Woollington, born at Monticello, in 1889, a daughter of A. V. Woollington, who has been in the monument business at Monticello for about thirty years. Mrs. Woollington died when Mrs. Clow was four years old. Mr. and Mrs. Clow have had three children as follows: Elizabeth, who was born July 15, 1913; George Vinson, who was born September 1, 1915, and one unnamed infant, who died March 10, 1912. Fraternally Mr. Clow belongs to the Modern Woodmen of America. In politics he is a Republican. Both Mr. and Mrs. Clow belong to the First Methodist Church, of Monticello, and are held in high esteem by their fellow members.

CLOW, Lewis, whose activities have led him into several avenues of endeavor, is now conducting a livery stable at Monticello, and making a success of this undertaking as he has of his other enterprises in the past. He was born near Cisco, this county, September 22, 1877, a son of G. H. and Jennie (Kistler) Clow, the former of whom was born near Post Oak, Fayette County, Ill., and the latter in Fairfield County, Ohio. They were married in Illinois, and settled on a farm in the vicinity of Cisco. In 1899 removal was made to Monticello, where the father embarked in a hardware business, and conducted it for three years when he traded it for a livery business, the only one in the city, and later he took his son Lewis as a co-partner. The firm has a co-operative delivery system which was started April 8, 1912, by Berlyn Clow, who had another livery business. The object of this system is to deliver groceries and other merchandise, and to make these deliveries the firm owns four automobile cars. There are eighteen horses, four delivery wagons, two express wagons, two carriages, two storm buggies, ten single rigs, four cabs and one farm wagon in the equipment.

Lewis Clow attended the district schools and the Monticello High school, after which he went to Brown's Business College. He then went to Nebraska and worked at ranching for eight years, having charge of the ranch for two years of this period. Upon his return to Illinois he traveled for six months, and then was agent for the United States Express Company at Champaign, Ill., for a year. For the next fifteen months he conducted a poultry business, and then went into his father's business, and has since then devoted his entire time to its interests.

On August 19, 1897, Mr. Clow was married to Dollie A. Adams, born at Minier, Ill., a daughter of John and Elizabeth (Johnson) Adams. Mr. and Mrs. Clow have no children of their own, but they have an adopted son, William Verner, who was born February 1, 1911, to whom they are giving loving parental care.

In religious faith Mr. Clow is a member of the Christian Church, in which he is president of the board of elders, and he is also a trustee of the church. Since the spring of 1915 Mr. Clow has been a constable, and is proving himself an efficient man for the office. His fraternal relations are with the Knights of Pythias and the Modern Woodmen of America.

COFFIN, Nelson G., M. D., who was born in North Carolina in 1820, came to Piatt County about 1847, and settled at Monticello. In 1848 he was married to Phoebe D. Johnson and they had three children, namely: Eugene and two who died in childhood. Dr. Coffin was graduated from the Medical College of Ohio, and began his practice in Vermilion County, Ind., in 1843. From August, 1862, to July, 1865, he served in the Union Army during the Civil War, as assistant surgeon of the One Hundred and Seventh Illinois Volunteer Infantry.

COFFIN, William D., a successful operator in real estate, a veteran of the Civil War and a man whose probity is generally recognized, is one of the leading business men of Bement. He was born in Vermilion County, Ind., near Newport, January 22, 1842, a son of Berkley P. and Narcissus (Davidson) Coffin, natives of North Carolina and Indiana. They were married in Indiana, where the father carried on blacksmithing and farming. The mother died when William D. was a lad, and the father married Elizabeth Arnott. In the spring of 1858 the family came to Illinois, locating in Bement Township, Piatt County, where the father bought a farm, there carrying on farming until his death in December, 1860. His widow later married again, but is now deceased. There were two children by the first marriage, namely: William D., and Ann who is now deceased. He had two children by his last marriage, namely: Wiley, who lives in New York state; and Perry who is deceased.

William D. Coffin attended the schools in his district and was taught farming by his father, and following the latter's death, he conducted the homestead until his enlistment for service during the Civil War, on August 7, 1862, in Company D, Seventy-third Illinois Volunteer Infantry, and was sent to Camp Butler, where the regiment was assigned to the Twentieth Army Corps, in Gen. Phil Sheridan's division. At the battle of Missionary Ridge, Mr. Coffin was wounded by a gunshot through the left arm, having already a slight wound in the right hip received at the battle of Chickamauga. After recovering from his wounds at home, having been given a furlough, Mr. Coffin rejoined his regiment in April, 1864, and was sent on the Atlanta campaign, being in the Fourth Army Corps, under General Thomas. After participating in the battle of Franklin the command went to Nashville, where it was re-enforced and then drove General Hood from Tennessee. During the winter the command was in camp at Huntsville, Ala., but on March 1, 1865, moved on Greenville, and there remained until after the death of President Lincoln. He was mustered out June 12, 1865, at Nashville, Tenn., and returned to Camp Butler, where he was discharged.

Mr. Coffin then went to Indiana and resumed farming, remaining until October 1, of that year, when he returned to Bement Township, bought a farm, and since then has made Piatt County his place of residence. He is a large dealer and trader in real estate, and in 1896 moved to Bement to operate upon a broader scale. His residence is a very fine one, and he owns property in eastern Indiana and a large tract in Bement Township, in all something like 700 acres.

On September 13, 1865, Mr. Coffin was married to Mary Holtz, born in Vermillion County, Ind., a daughter of John and Lavina (Whipple) Holtz, natives of New England states. Mr. and Mrs. Coffin became the parents of the following children: Eva, who is Mrs. Albert Harshbarger, of Danville, Ill.; Harry and Homer, twins, the former living at Bement, the latter deceased; Edward, who is deceased; William, who died in infancy; Emma, who is deceased; and Bessie and Fred who are both at home. Mr. Coffin is a Methodist, and active in promoting church work. He served as township supervisor for two terms, assessor for one term, was road commissioner and held other offices, being elected on the Republican ticket. The local Grand Army of the Republic Post holds his membership.

COLE, Ben, whose experiences have been somewhat varied, is one of the successful farmers of Goose Creek Township. He was born in Bement Township, Piatt County, Ill., March 7, 1872, a son of Sam and Catherine (McGuire) Cole, natives of Pike County, Ill., and Ireland. The grandparents were Elijah and Sarah Cole, natives of Kentucky and Ohio, and James McGuire, and all were early settlers of Illinois. The parents after marriage located on a farm in Bement Township, where the mother died in 1886. The father survives and lives with his children.

Ben Cole attended the public schools of Piatt County until he was fifteen years old when he began working among the neighboring farmers by the month. In 1893 he went on a farm in Henry County, Ill., but five years later returned to Piatt County, and for five years more continued his agricultural work in Monticello Township. Being appointed superintendent of the poor farm of Piatt County, he served faithfully as such until the spring of 1913, when he moved to a farm of 255 acres of land in Goose Creek Township, 160 acres of which are under cultivation, and the balance in pasture. Here he carries on general farming and stock raising, and has been very successful in his work.

In January, 1893, Mr. Cole was married to Maud Weaver, born in Monticello Township. Their children were as follows: Florence, who is a nurse residing at Rochester, Minn.; and Ralph and Nellie, who live at home. Mrs. Cole died in October, 1909. On October 21, 1911, Mr. Cole was married a second time and has by that union the following children: Pauline, Kenneth and Marian. In politics Mr. Cole is a Democrat. Fraternally he belongs to the Modern Woodmen of America at Monticello. An industrious worker, he has made his way in the world, and has every right to feel proud of the progress he has made.

COLEMAN, John W., M. D., for some years in active practice at Monticello, is now deceased. He was born in Montgomery County, Ohio, January 8, 1831, and was graduated from Miami College, Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1856, with the degree of M. D., following which he practiced medicine in McLean County, Ill. In 1860 he moved to Monticello, but with the outbreak of the Civil War he offered his services to his country, and was assistant surgeon in the Forty-first Illinois Volunteer Infantry. On June 8, 1858, Dr. Coleman was married and he and his wife had several children, but only one, Lida, reached maturity. It was Dr. Coleman who planted the beautiful evergreens in the Monticello Cemetery, which stand to his memory, although all that is mortal of him lies in this same cemetery.

COLLINS, Abraham, came to Goose Creek Township in 1838, and was engaged there in farming for many years, but is now deceased. He was married in Indiana to Eliza Biddle and their children were as follows: William, Abraham, John, Surrilda, Simeon, Mary Jane, James, Mrs. Wilson Williams and Joseph.

CONAWAY, Amos, was born in Bourbon County, Ky., and came to Piatt County in 1852. He was married to Elizabeth Boyd and they had nine children, namely: Jane C., Byron,

BENJAMIN S. WOODS

436 Alfred Street, Boston

during the last part of the last century and the beginning part of this. His wife was Filene Fuller, and they lived at the eastward till after her death, when, having no children, he came over the mountain to his brother's, and never after removed, but died here about 1831. He was a man of fine physical frame and of no ordinary intelligence, and was exceedingly fond of the unbroken forests. He was a great hunter and fisherman, and claimed to be a skilful root-doctor. After his brother's death, he would sometimes leave his nephew's house and be absent for a week at a time, hunting and fishing and searching for roots in the woods and mountains. He came and went easily, making no reports of his journeys, nor seeming to think of them as worthy of any chronicle. But he had a good memory of the earlier times and persons, was fond of reporting the epithets of the Kelloggs in the old Hadley burying-ground, and some of the facts above noted in relation to Samuel Kellogg have come down through this singular informant.

11. Daniel Bacon, the father-in-law of Samuel Kellogg, was from Middletown, Connecticut, a blacksmith by trade, son of Nathaniel Bacon, 2d, of Middletown, and the best known of the three men from Williamstown killed in the battle of Bennington. His daughter Chloe married Kellogg, in March, 1764, and some time after her husband's death, in 1788, she married Thomas Henderson, a farmer of Bennington, and lived there until 1829, when she died, aged eighty-five. She was, accordingly, twenty-three years old when she married Kellogg; and her father must have been older than the average inquirer when he settled here. His ultimate farm consisted of two fifty-acre lots of the first division, — Nos. 61 and 63, — adjoining end to end, and lying directly east of Taylor's Crotch. His nearest neighbor was Absalom Blair, who was with him and Kellogg in Bennington Battle. Bacon's father preceded him in the buying and selling of lands in Berkshire, as appears from certain deeds in the old registry. For example, Nathaniel Bacon, 2d, of Middletown, gave, under the usual formula, his lots in "New Framingham" (Janesboro) to his son Jacob, 20 Aug., 1761; and this Jacob lived, in 1765, in "Yokunstown" (Lenox), and, still later, sold the lands in Janesboro to Elijah Hurlburt. Daniel came to Williamstown before Jacob did, and in September, 1766, bought of Samuel Payen, of Water Street, fifty-acre lot 61, for $22; and apparently, some time after, bought No. 63, adjoining, for $40, of Aaron Bacon, who may likely have been another brother, though we know little about him. The description of No. 63 in the deed from Aaron to Daniel is worth quoting: "bounded West on highway, East on land belonging to Jonathan Kilborn, South on land belonging to Josiah Wright, North on a highway." This second "highway" is what is now called the "Blair road." The cellar of Bacon's original house, on No. 63, is still visible enough, near a spring of living water, on the south side of the lot. There is an old plum tree or two still growing near the cellar-wall. The next house built on that lot was on a knoll considerably further north, — a brick house, in which Captain Isaac Latham lived for many years, — but the present farm-house is still further north, and on the very edge of the Blair road. Daniel Bacon seems to have been a stirring man, and ultimately reached the rank of "Sergeant" in his militia company, and would doubtless have been fairly seated in the meeting-house by 1768, which was nine years before his honored death.

Though in somewhat rude lines, Jacob Bacon also left deeply cut memorials of himself in the town of his final choice of residence. He lived and died on what is now "Farm B," belonging to John B. Gale (Williams College, 1842), originally No. 11 of the first division of the fifty-acre lots, on the Green River road. He died Dec. 27, 1819, in his eightieth year. His wife, Lois, died Nov. 23, 1818, in her fifty-ninth year. Their son Stephen, born Feb. 28, 1771, made his home well up into the Hopper, where his posterity have resided ever since. His wife's name was Mehitable. They were married Feb. 2, 1789, when the groom was not quite eighteen. Their son Stephen was born Oct. 7, 1804, and practically spent his life on the Upper Hopper Brook. He once told the present writer, that, when he was a small boy, Aaron Wright lived still further up the brook than the Bacon place; indeed, somebody has lived beyond the Bacons during the whole of this century, Stephen Pettitt being the last long-lived and well-known occupant of this obscure ultima Thule. The second Stephen Bacon said, also, once, to the writer, that he remembered his grandfather Jacob perfectly well, that he visited him often on "Farm B," as it was then, and that he once gave him a penny! The present Stephen Bacon, the third of that name in regular succession, an intelligent and enterprising and excellent man, is still cultivating the ancestral acres, and many more well-rounded ones in extension of them; in fact, the Upper Hopper would no longer be itself without some hospitable family, with that well-known name to give its greeting, and, perchance, its succor, to the passing wayfarer towards, or in return from, the summit of Greylock. Still, it was an old soldier of Fort Massachusetts, Elkanah Parris, becoming a Quaker after the Peace of Paris, leaving his own-built "regulation" house in the village, on Green River Perry (Williams, 1881), Walter Perry (Williams, 1887), and Carroll Perry (Williams, 1890) are of that line; while Lucy, the deacon's youngest daughter, was united in marriage to Jonathan Wadhams (Williams College, 1867). Another of Deacon James's sisters, Lydia, born and bred like him by the riverside, married Noah Sheldon (Williams College, 1815); and two of their sons, Charles and Samuel (both Williams College, 1847), were honored in their graduation, one with the Philosophical Oration, and the other with the Salutatory. Another of these sisters married Manning Brown, a native of Cheshire, and a successful farmer and manufacturer in Williamstown and Adams; and their son, Timothy M. Brown (Williams College, 1859), has long been a prominent citizen and lawyer in the city of Springfield on the Connecticut River. Deacon James Smedley's widow, her son William and wife, who care for her in her extreme age, and two orphan children of her youngest son, Edward, who was in the Signal Corps on Commodore Farragut's flagship in the battle of Mobile Bay, a son and a daughter, are the only persons in Williamstown bearing the name of Smedley as the nineteenth century draws to a close. What a contrast in point of numbers as compared with the close of the eighteenth century here!

17. There came to Williamstown in 1764, from Weathersfield, Connecticut, a man by the name of Josiah Wright. His wife's name was Abigail, and both became members of the Williamstown church, it is to be presumed, by letter. They had a son, Josiah Wright, Junior, and probably several other sons. There was a Gideon Wright and his wife Sarah, who were also very early members of the church; and it is not to be doubted that a pew was set aside in the meeting-house of 1768 for the Wright family. There is an epitaph in the old burial-ground by the Hemlock Brook,—"Mr. Jonathan Wright, who died April 10, A.D. 1766 in the 30th year of his age." Justice Wright and his wife, Mercy, had children born in town, 1779-1782; and Stephen Bacon, 2d, told the writer that when he was a small boy—that is, at the beginning of this century—there was an Aaron Wright, who lived on the Upper Hopper Brook above Bacons'. But, as we shall see shortly, interest in the Wright family turns rather on a locality than on persons particular. Josiah Wright, Junior, bought of Samuel Clark in July, 1772, for £5, the meadow lot No. 63, which is the meadow lot directly south of Blair's (now Hubbell's). As we have seen before, Blair's original house stood north of the road, in what is now an orchard; and there is some considerable evidence that Wright owned meadow lot No. 62 as well as 63, and, at any rate, his access to 63 must have been past the present Hubbell buildings to the south. However this may be (and it is not important), it is certain that Josiah Wright's son settled not long after his arrival in town on first-division fifty-acre lot No. 61, the northern end of which comes up to the Blair road before that road turns sharply north into the Stratton road. The eastern side of Wright's lot 61 flanks what was then Aaron Bacon's lot 63 (these were both fifty-acre lots), and Bacon must have come out to the Blair road very near where the senior Wright built his first house. This house was superseded after a while by a brick house, which has only lately been taken down, and about which cluster a series of weird traditions, which the future novelist of the town (may God speed his coming!) may likely enough work up into a tale that shall outlive these imperfect records now being woven into a loose fabric that may ravel out in time.

It is not at all certain, hardly probable, that the brick house was built while the elder Wright was still in the saddle there. If not, it was certainly built by one or more of his sons. The family remained in possession, and gradually acquired a bad reputation. The father and mother moved on to Arlington, Vermont, where Abigail died in February, 1795, and Josiah in February, 1799, he in his eighty-seventh year and she in her seventy-ninth; and at some time between the close of the war and the close of the century, the inmates of the brick house were thought so ill of by their neighbors that the latter lent a ready ear to a story of murder committed by the former, and repeated it over, little by little, with ghostly details and additions, to their children, from several of whom the writer has derived it directly, though, of course, with quaint and considerable variations. This is not history, nor does it aspire to become such; but there must have been some basis of fact, and surely a stiff basis of locality, for a story that has been told under breath, and not without shudders, for several generations, in the Blair family and in the Williams family,—the two nearest neighbors,—and also in the Corbin and other families at the South Part. It is the only tale of robbery and murder and ghosts that connects itself, even in dimmest outline, with the early story of Williamstown, and runs in general in something like the way following: The Wrights had become considerably indebted to a certain pedlar driving one horse, who frequented those parts in quest of the usual dribbles of gain. The neighbors had seen him drive up to the brick house, had watched for his return, and had not discovered it. In the mean time, mysterious movements were observed in and around the house. Lights were seen at unusual times, and in usually unfrequented parts of the house. The suspicions of the neighbors, that something wrong was going on in and around the Wright house, were thoroughly aroused, and these suspicions were mutually inflamed by communicating them. In a day or two, all was still and apparently abandoned at the brick house. Neighbors combined in fear and dread, but with all due resolution, to search for the body of the pedlar and for his various effects. Possible places of internment or hiding away were scrutinized, sheds and barn and cellar were examined, and nothing was found anywhere of a questionable character, until at last the pedlar's horse was discovered in the best room of the brick house, with cloths wrapped round his hoofs, apparently so that his stampings on the floor might not be heard by the neighbors, before the inmates had gotten a good ways off from the premises. No stampings or neighings from the real horse had then been heard by anybody; but years and years afterwards, and to many successive occupants of the house, mysterious sounds issued from that room, slight but distinct, treadings on that floor, deadened as if falling on cloths, and neighings, not equine and earthly, but stifled and supernatural, as if the ghost of the pedlar had come back to seek for his horse, and the horse had greeted his old master with at least the distant echoes of accustomed sounds. There are old people, still living, who have confessed, in the writer's hearing, to strange perturbations of mind as they have entered, or quitted, or even thought of (in the night), the square room of the old brick house above Blair's.

18. Titus Harrison was from Litchfield, and owned, in 1765, house lot No. 39, the third lot east from South Street, and the one on which Eli Porter lived a great many years, and on which the late Dr. Samuel Duncan built the present house owned by his children. Harrison soon quitted the Main Street, even if he ever occupied his house lot 39, and established himself on Water Street, where he utilized, for the first time, the successive falls in the Green River at that point, for milling purposes. He built a house there on the bank of the river, and had for near neighbors Joseph Osborne and Samuel Payen. The last-named was a carpenter from Dutchess County, New York, who, like many others before and after him, was drawn towards the mill-privileges on the lower course of Green River. There are three or four of these natural falls in the stream, near the east end of the Main Street and to the south of it, and one (lower down) to the north of it. The last one was not utilized for a water-privilege till after the Civil War, when the Arnold brothers, of North Adams, and other capitalists, using Professor Chadbourne as a sort of partner, or rather agent, availed themselves of it, in connection with a local fall in the Hoosac, to obtain power for the present large cotton-mill at their junction; but the falls above drew attention to themselves at the very first, and occupied the minds of many projectors and many purchasers before Titus Harrison first practically made them tell. The standing difficulty was, that first-division fifty-acre lot No. 30, which covered all the land contiguous to the falls on both sides of the river, was about sixty feet below the nearest point of access to the Main Street from any prospective mill or mills, and this point of access was a regular jumping-off place at that, — rocky and precipitous. In June, 1761, Gideon Warren, formerly a soldier at Fort Massachusetts, but then a yeoman of West Hoosac, sold to Samuel Payen, for £6, "two acres on Green river, part of a lot known as No. 30, beginning at the N.W. corner of M. L. 47, thence North 20 rods, thence East 16 rods across Green river, thence South 20 rods on the east side of the river, thence West across the river 16 rods to the place of beginning, with privilege of flowing the river bank as high up as ye top of ye upper falls"; "and also a strip of land two rods wide by the west side of said river beginning at the north side of said land I sold to said Payn, and running north by said river to the mouth of the brook [Phebe's Brook], and up the hill to the lot now enclosed and so out to the main road or Highway, to be a highway for the use of the town." Isaac Stratton and Daniel Stratton sign this deed as witnesses.

This was a very important deed. Gideon Warren and Samuel Payen solved the mill question, opened up Water Street into Main just as it runs to-day, and went part way towards justifying the location of the house lots as a site for a permanent village. There can be little or no doubt that the commissioners sent up by the General Court in the spring of 1750 to lay out the house lots — that is, the prospective village — were a good deal controlled in their selection of a site, in many respects unfortunate, by the situation of these Green River Falls. If they had carried fully out their original scheme of a uniform rectangle, one quarter of the lots in number coming into each angle of their Greek cross constituted by the Main Street and North and South Streets bisecting it, these falls would have fallen into two individual house lots, otherwise almost worthless on account of the high and abrupt wall dividing the Main Street from the tumbling stream. Hence, they threw out five house lots altogether from the east end of the southeast quarter of their rectangle, and ran one lot (No. 57) parallel with the Main Street, while all the rest

s/o Geo

October 23, 1816, now the wife of Theophilus Holway, of Vigo County, Indiana, and Frank, born February 6, 1848, an artist living in the city of New York. Mr. McNeill was married a second time to Mrs. Elizabeth (Rudy) Barger, a sister of his first wife, and to this union were born seven children, four sons and three daughters-- Scott, Albert, John B. and Charles G., and Josephine, wife of F. A. Walker; Anna Laura, wife of Thomas J. Armstrong, and Jennie Lind living at home. In his religious belief Mr. McNeill inclines toward Unitarianism, although he has a greater respect for good deeds than for creeds. He has been a student of religious literature the greater part of his life and has found so many conflicting theories that he long ago decided to take reason for his guide. His motto is: "Do not unto others that which you would not have others do unto you." In politics he was in early life a Whig, casting his first presidential vote for Henry Clay. He now affiliates with the Republican party. Mr. McNeill is one of the active and public spirited citizens of Vermillion County, and is ever ready to aid in the promotion of whatever enterprise he believes is for the best interests of his fellow men.

JOHN WRIGHT, a worthy representative of one of the earliest pioneer families of Vermillion County, is a native of New York State, born in Ontario County, March 22, 1818, a son of George and Anna (Handy) Wright, the father born in the State of New York, and the mother a native of Massachusetts. In 1819 they came to Indiana with their family of nine children, the subject of this sketch being then a babe. After one year's residence in Terre Haute, they, in 1820, came to Vermillion County, and in the forest of Clinton Township established their future home on Lenderman Creek, five miles southwest of Clinton. The country at that time was a wilderness, containing but few families, being inhabited principally by Indians and wild animals. George Wright was a poor man, able only to secure a tract of 160 acres, and most of his children were too young to render any assistance in their struggle for a livelihood. Labor in the pioneer settlement commanded no money. There were no mills in the country, and corn when raised had to be pounded into meal in huge improvised mortars. Gradually the opening in the forest grew larger and the circumstances of the family improved, and the boys, each year added strength to the working force. Two children were added to the family in their pioneer home. Mrs. Wright did not live to see the fruition of her hopes, dying in 1827, in her forty-first year. Mr. Wright was spared to enjoy the fruits of his years of persevering toil, having a comfortable home. He died in 1844 at the age of sixty-six years. He was a hard working man, full of energy and ambition, and was kind and accommodating to all, and he is still favorably remembered by many of the old pioneers. Of his eleven children, six sons and five daughters, all have passed away but John, the subject of this sketch, and Truman who lives in Edgar County, Illinois. John Wright associates his earliest recollections of life with events in the pioneer days of Vermillion County. His educational advantages were limited, but contact with the world has enabled him to fully overcome the deficiencies of his youthful days. He was reared to the avocation of a farmer, and he has made farming his principal occupation through life, though the past six years he has lived retired from active life, in Clinton, where he owns a good residence, and considerable city property, including about a half interest in the Opera House block. Mr. Wright was united in marriage October 6, 1836, to Miss Margaret Nickle, who was born in Pennsylvania in 1816, and was a daughter of James Nickle, one of the county's pioneer men. Of the six children born to them but three are living—Lucias H., of Clinton Township, was a soldier in the Eighteenth Indiana Infantry during the war; Mrs. Narcissus Payn, of Clinton Township, and John O., of Wichita, Kansas. Mr. and Mrs. Wright were pioneers of Jackson County, Iowa, locating there in 1838. One year later they removed to Galena, Illinois, where Mrs. Wright kept a boarding house two years, Mr. Wright being engaged in smelting and hauling lead ore. They then returned to Jackson County, Iowa, where Mr. Wright followed farming six years. Returning to Indiana with a little capital, he purchased eighty acres of land in Vigo County, and there resided three years, when he removed to Edgar County, Illinois, where his wife died. Mr. Wright was subsequently married to Miss Mary Chunn, who was born in Clinton Township, Vermillion County, in 1827, a daughter of John T. Chunn, who was a Major in the war of 1812, in the Virginia Volunteers. To this union six children were born, all of whom are residing in Clinton Township or city. They are as follows—David, Mrs. Margaret Smith, a widow, Mrs. Naomi Hale, Mrs. Maria Van Dyne, Ulysses G. and William C. In 1858 Mr. Wright again returned to Vermillion County, since which time he has been a resident of Clinton Township, and during this time he has witnessed the marvelous growth and development of the county, in which he has done his full share. On settling in the county he bought 300 acres of land, and by his good management he added to his real estate until he had 1,400 acres. He has given his children a good start in life, and yet owns about 700 acres, and all his property has been acquired by fair and honorable means. Mr. Wright is a member of the Masonic fraternity. In politics he was in early days a Whig, an ardent supporter and admirer of Henry Clay, and since the organization of the Republican party has voted that ticket.

JOHAN McNEILL, deceased, formerly a resident of Perrysville, was born in Tuscarora Valley, Pennsylvania. After living for a time in Loudoun County, Virginia, and Frederick County, Maryland, he came, in November, 1836, with his family to Perrysville. While residing in Maryland he was regarded as one of the foremost citizens of Frederick County, filling many honorable positions in society. For many years he was justice of the peace, and so clear was his head in legal matters, and so impartial his judgments, that no appeal was ever taken from his docket. He was an intense anti-slavery man and an active member of the Maryland Colonization Society, the object of which organization was to colonize the colored people in Liberia, Africa. He was once offered the position of Probate Judge of Frederick County by the Governor and Council,—a life appointment,—but declined it, having determined to move West. He was well posted in Governmental matters. Was a prominent and useful member of the Methodist Episcopal church, well informed as to her policy and doctrines. After he came to Perrysville he purchased a lot for a church building, and was one of the leading spirits in the enterprise of erecting the church. He was united in marriage with Hannah Mayne, and they had a large family of children noted
